

FOUR BASIC TRAITS NEEDED TO SUCCEED OF OUR LIVES

1. Patience
2. Punctuality
3. Positive Attitude &
4. Initiative

Patience is one of the most important qualities for improvement in life. Nothing happens overnight. It takes time to achieve our goal. Patience to persist with will-power will help you to achieve your objectives. If we want have better result in our exams, we must have the patience to read lessens every day, till our exam days are over. Are our educationist fools to allocate 4 years of time to complete engineering courses, if we can complete by reading at the last month? If we want to bake a cake to firmness, we have to bake at an even temperature for a specific period of time. If we want a cake in short time and place it in high temperature we will get a burnt cake. Same way we get burn out if we put ourselves under high pressure just before the exams.

Everyone has got 24 hrs in a day. If I am not punctual, then I am not respecting other person's time. If I don't respect others, I can't expect respect from others. I will not be able to work in a team and I will be left behind. I must be punctual to attend my classes in time and be present in time for all group activities.

Every incident has a positive side and negative aspect. How we take the incident depends on our awareness and attitude. If a teacher is scolding, he is giving feedback to improve in our studies. Some teacher may not be good in giving feedback in appropriate method and we may get upset. It is our duty to study well and pass out all the exam papers with flying colours. Sometime we focus so much on other's negative aspect we forget to look towards our own negatives.

We always like a student who takes initiative by himself to take up the task instead of waiting to be told. If you are not clear on any subject, it is your responsibility to take the initiative and clear your doubts from teachers, classmates, seniors, reference books and from internets in this information age.
